TUEISDAY—LAST NIGHT OF GENEVIEVE, which must be laid aside for other novelies

Last night of TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.

These two attractive and popular pieces will be played together for this night only.

Artemise and Beb Nettles, Miss Agnes Robertson; Lorin and Tourbillon, Mr. Dion Bourcleasit; Doxmer, Mr. C. Fisher; Genevieve, Miss. C. Howard; Maurice Laudry, Mr. Morton; Dolsbella and Wadellove Mr. Burton.

The extraordinary scenery in the piece of Genevieve nightly receives the loueset applause, and the deepest interest is excited by the various original situations.

On WEDNESDAY—A new Musical Fairy Piece, with new Scenery, called BLUE BELLE, in which Miss A. Robertson, Miss Polly Marshal, Mr. Burron, and others will appear. And also, the drama of Liffe Of AN ACTRESS, in which Miss Agnes Robertson and Mr. Dion Bourcleaux will at their original parts.

specimen of a good accing play. The interest never flage easier currosity is kept alive turoughout; the characters are highly contrasted; and the principal personages are drawn with vigor and clearness. The role of the Ducness was most effectively austained by Miss Elsworthy, who possesses all the qualifies thus essential to the development of the opposites elements in direct whom the contrast of the actres, round whom, as the center figure, the whole action revolves. Miss Elsworthy displayed considerable ability, in portraying the variety of emotions incidental to the character, and her energy suffered no diminution to the close. Are Anderson played the two brothers, and presented in the performance a remarkable combination of high tragic force and deep and subdued pathos. The ago less of a l-ver who loves against hope have seldom been so tuchingly realized upon the stage; and it would have been difficut to comprehend the nature of the woman who could have resisted the pitcous appeals of a voice so heavily loden with tears, if we had not known that her wounded pride had frozen up her blood, and turned her heart to the Cribbs secret of his birth, and receives the last repulse from his his mistress was played with great intensity.

[Literary Gasette.]

B" The exertions of Mr. Anderson are vigorous and artistic His combat at the end of the third act comeanded the most sympathetic attention, and insured him scall before the surtain and an en husis-tic express in of popular approval. The great part of the drama is that of the Duchess, who was impersonated in a highly efficient manner by Miss Agnes Elsworthy, and we are pleased to record the success of this trul oxollent play."

and we are piessed to record the success of this trai, excellent play."

"The new play of 'Cloud and Sunshine,' written by Mr. James Andersen, belongs to the same class of drams as 'The Lady of Lyans,' Money,' &n, and is indeed of a nighty moral tenesters. The theme or semiment of returning good for evi, of forgiveness to our enemies, is naturally marked out, and the interest increases with each at. Mr. Andersen was deably the hero of the evening and played in his usual dashing style the parts (twin brothers) of Edgar and Heart Dunches; while the Duchess of Naime, the heroine, was confided to Miss Arnes Elsworthy, who reminded us very much or Mrs. Charles Kean (when Miss Ellen Tree) in her impersonation of the Countess in Sheridan Knowles's play of 'Love.' Miss Elsworthy's correct since she appeared at the St James and Sadlers Wells, has been an uninterrupted series of successes." (Musicai World.

IT IS WELL RECEIVED BY THE CRITICS.

Says The Springfield Republican:

"The circumstances of Mr Milburn's life are now pretty well known to the public. Nearly blind, he traveled in twelve years $10,000 miles in the performance of his clerical duties, as a Methodist Minister. A man of taste, culture, genins and elequence, he is leved and admired wherever known. The book is on peace of hectures delivered before various associations of young men. They are bright, racy productions fut of good humor, Christian sentiment and graceful fancy. We heartily commend the book to the public."

Says The Philadesphia Evening Bulletin:

"A work which cannot full to beex remely and soundly pepular among traders of every description in America, whether rough, energetic men, fair ladies, scaolars of either the oid or new school, and by the serious. We have reach these loctures with that decided interest seldom awakened in the reviews that decided interest seldom awakened in the two-way that the control of pass through the current literature of the day, and venture to predict for them an eaviable success. The work, throughout, indicates a truly remarkable combination of an appreciation of Nature and Art—the termer in its wildness, the latter in its most refrice forms."

Says The Rome Sentine!:

"The politic and beauty of zome of the most elegant of our

Says Tee Philadelphia Evening Journal:

"A schola, an orator and a poet, as well as an earnest, faithful n inister of God's Word, he gives us in the pages of this book some as noble thought a, lefty poetry and parnotism, deep rewarch into Nature, thrilling records of frontier life and labors, and sentis of great hi torical ability, as we ever hat the good tortune to discover and appreciate. In any one volume given to our perusal. His talents seem as solid as wa loos, he is equally at home in the log cabin, the library or the pulgit; and what he says, he says with a terseness, a grace and a force we have seldon seen excelled surely never by one laboring under the same afflicthon. This book should be put into the bands of every youth, of either sex, in our land, and those of riper years will do well to learn lessons of truth and wisdom from its pages." A BOOK of ABSORBING INTEREST .-

MARÍAMNE:

MARIAMNE;
Os. THE QUEEN'S FATE.
A TALE OF THE DAYS OF HEROD.

SVE. R. M.
One vol., Išmo., nearly 380 paces, beautifully illustrated.
Frice &1.

This is a tale of an awe-arousing epoch in veritable history, presented in the form and with all the interest of romance. It is a narrative of scenes in the life and at the death of Mariamne, the faverite and most beautiful of King Herod's wives. It is written with anoth elegance and vigor, and while it a interest is of that unfraging kind which precludes the possibility of laying it aside unfinished, it fixes in the unind indelibly a series of events of the wrondrous Era of the Salvation of the human race, with which every Christian should be familiar. Who the author is we have no idea, but we should like to get hold of any thing and every thing of hers which bears as powerful an impress of genus as does the work before us "[Old Colony Memorial, Plymouth, Mass.
